

Argentina's Depression Started in 1999 and Became a Full Crisis in December 2001

The country's GDP shrunk an astounding 67% from 1998 to 2002. By comparison, the U.S. Great Depression was a loss of about 45% of GDP from 1929 to 1933.

