

Argentina Lost Around 45% of its Dollar Reserves in the First Seven Months of 2001

International investors started to lose faith in the dollar peg around the time Argentina's lawmakers started to tinker with the exchange rate.

