

Americans Pay More for Sugar Than the Rest of the World (Even Europe)

Again, this isn't a "sweet tax." It's sugar protectionism policies dating to the Great Depression that make sugar more expensive in the U.S.

